

Security

Like other buildings in the area, we have been the victim of break-ins through the garage. This has increased our awareness of security issues. The Longueuil police have made the following suggestions which we ask you to take into account for the safety of all. Reminders are posted at strategic locations.

Main entrance

- Visitors must ring to gain entry. If someone asks to enter without ringing, feel comfortable to say that residents are strictly forbidden to let someone they don't know in without keys. There is a sign at the entrance to confirm what you are saying.
- When moving or in any other situation in which large objects must be delivered, make sure that the main door remains closed between comings and goings. Notify the delivery person.
- Do not let anyone in if you do not know them, especially if you are not expecting them. Do not hesitate to ask people to identify themselves before letting them in. If you subscribe to Videotron, tune in to 940ou to see who is at the door on your TV.

Your door

- Even if you know all your neighbors, it is safer to keep your apartment door locked at all times since others have access to our building from time to time.

In the garage

- There are posters to remind you to stop when entering and leaving. It is a matter of deliberately showing anyone who may be watching our building with criminal intent that we are waiting for the door to close before moving forward. To do this, stop near the door, both entering and leaving. Of course, you could see someone getting in just by looking in your rear-view mirror even when you as you are moving along. But you especially want to be seen. That's why you must stay near the door.
- The pedestrian door next to the car entrance door is an exit door only. When it closes behind you, check that it is indeed locked as the lock sometimes does not engage.
- Should people you do not know try to follow you through the door from the garage to the elevator, do feel comfortable telling them that residents are strictly forbidden to let in visitors who do not have a key. Invite them to go through the main entrance and ring so that the person waiting for them can open the door.
- Do not leave anything visibly in your car including the garage door remote.

Fire safety

Main exits in case of emergency

The location of some of these exits is not obvious. Take the time to locate them while visiting the building.

Garage: 2 exits

- 1) To the left of the garage door
- 2) To the left of the entrance door to the basement

Basement: 1 exit

- Door to the stairs in front of the elevator (then take the door immediately to your left)

Ground floor: 3 exits

- 1) In the corridor of condos 101 to 106, near condos 103 and 104, exit to roof of the garage
- 2) In the corridor of condos 107 and 108, you can take the stairs leading to the basement, then the door to the right at the foot of the stairwell.
- 3) The building's main entrance

Floors 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, P1, P2: 2 exits

- 1) Door to the stairs near the elevator
- 2) Door to the stairs near the elevator

Fire safety

Manual alarm trigger stations

2nd to 8th (P2) floor: 2 stations per floor

- At both ends of the corridor.
- Facing Victoria Street, the station is next to the stairwell, near the elevator.

Garage: 2 stations

- To the left of the garage door
- Near the entrance towards the elevator

Basement: 1 station

- On the wall facing the elevator

Ground floor: 3 stations

- In the corridor between condos 107 & 108 (1 station)
- In the corridor of condos 101 & 106 (3 stations)

Did you know that the most common cause of fire in apartment buildings or condominiums is the kitchen fire?

A few instructions

(Also refer to Fire Safety Signs on the wall of your floor corridor)

- The first idea that comes to mind when the alarm sounds is to go down to the lobby. This is what is indeed recommended. But depending on circumstances, it may be helpful to know the location of all the possible emergency exits.
- The list of people who have requested special assistance is available to firefighters as soon as they arrive. According to the fire prevention technician, these people should still, insofar as possible, go to the head of the stairs on their floor to wait for the firefighters' arrival. The stairwell, we were told, is the safest place to be.
